HUN KINGS TO CONFER ON PEACE

*Rulers of German States

SAYS KAISER OBJECTED

*Declare Emperor Opposed Prince Max
Note to U. S.*

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—Emperor William will summon the sovereigns of all the German federation states to Berlin for a consultation before an answer is made to President Wilson's note, according to a Cologne dispatch. Such a conference is unique in the history of Germany.

Kaiser Objected?
By Associated Press Leased Wire
London, Oct. 11.—Chancellor Maximilian's peace proposal to President Wilson was made in direct opposition to the views of Emperor William, according to information brought to London by a neutral who left Germany within a few days. It is suggested that this is the reason for the summoning of the German sovereigns to Berlin for a conference. No official confirmation can be obtained.

Papers Favor Peace.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Amsterdam, Oct. 11.—German newspapers received here reveal a number of long articles intended to prepare the public for further developments in the peace movement. They contain favorable reference to President Wilson's peace formula.

French Approve Note.
Paris, Oct. 11 (Havas).—President Wilson's reply to the German peace note was approved by a vote of the committee on foreign affairs of the Chamber of Deputies. The resolution also expressed the reliance on the government not to accept in behalf of France any armistice which would not provide atonement or guarantees "to the victorious armies of the entente."

No Decision.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Basel, Switzerland, Oct. 11.—So far no decision has been reached by the ministers assembled under the call of Prince Max to consider President Wilson's answer to the peace proposals.

As the new German government, the message adds, regards peace measures most seriously, it is considered certain that an answer will be given President Wilson on all three points with the same rapidity with which he answered the German note. It is believed that it is the purpose of the German government to pursue the conversation commenced and the possibility of complete peace.

Washington Speculates.
By Associated Press Leased Wire
Washington, Oct. 11.—Speculation here as to the meaning of the conference of the sovereigns of the German states called by the Kaiser, ranges all the way from an appeal to the petty sovereigns to renewed fealty to the supreme ruler and the suppression of any disaffection in their territory, to the abdication of the kaiser and unconditional surrender.

Washington, Oct. 11.—American troops sent overseas now total 1,900,000, General March announced today, coupling his statement with an urgent appeal for the support of the Fourth Liberty Loan.

The present is the time the army needs backing, said General March, and the maximum resources of men and money of this nation must be hurled at the Hun. To make victory certain, the movement of troops continues, and the war department is preparing another two million men to follow the first two million.

The war department has asked congress for eight billion dollars to carry out this program. General March added, and the final support of the people must not be withheld. 16,000 Minor Casualties.

The first courier from General Pershing, carrying the hospital record of slightly wounded, has arrived. General March said the list contained approximately 16,000 names. This number, he said, was the accumulation of all of General Pershing's army up to the time it was decided to bring the list by courier. The list was found, upon examination, to contain names of those accidentally injured, and is not confined to those injured in the front lines. The list will soon be ready for the press.

BOCHE FLEE HEADLONG ON WIDE FRONT TODAY WITH FOCH IN PURSUIT

*British and Americans Pursue Retreating Germans and Widen Great Cambrai Wedge To-

Effort To Save His Armies By Gigantic
Withdrawal to Belgian Territory*

RETREAT IN ALL WEST SALIENTS IS UNDER WAY

By Associated Press Leased Wire

With the Anglo-American Forces Southeast of Cambrai, Oct. 11.—The great battle is now being fought on a front of nearly thirty miles today, having been extended northward. The British are gaining everywhere. There is virtually no infantry opposition, the only resistance worth mentioning is that of machine gun forces. The bulk of the enemy artillery seems to have fled so far to the east as to be out of range.

Countless Machine Guns.

The high ground on the eight mile front between Hilaire and Le Cateau and to the southeast was found to be alive with machine gun nests when the British approached, and the cavalry patrol was held up here for some time. In Headlong Flight.

It is known that on the Le Cateau-Hilaire line the Germans are in headlong flight.

The Douai salient is being made still deeper and the news that the Germans have begun their evacuation there is expected at any time.

No Signs of Halt.

Cambrai is being rapidly left behind by the British. The Germans are fleeing ahead of the allied push and nowhere have they given signs of making a determined stand, but the British progress is somewhat slower today because it is impossible for the vast organization in the rear to keep pace, although what has been done so far will sound incredible when it may be told.

Late last night the British Third army had made a four mile advance, the Fourth army had advanced between 1 and 3 miles and the First army was east of Cambrai about 3 miles. All of the armies continue to move eastward.

Last night was one of clear starlight and the British bombing forces were intensively active with human and other targets, creating great havoc. The Americans are keeping perfect pace with the British on each side.

WAK SUMMARY.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

The German grip on Northern France, which is being loosened by the process of hurling them back to the Belgian border, is proceeding at an exceedingly rapid pace today. Have Gone 45 Miles.

Already, since the initial loosening process in July, allies have pushed the enemy lines a maximum of 45 miles from the Ancre river near Albert, to the tip of the present Anglo-American wedge at Le Cateau.

A scant 25 miles will bring their line to the B frontier south of Maubeuge. It is believed that it will be long before the pressure on the allied sides will be enemy out of all of France and the greater part of Belgium.

Begin General Retreat.

The Germans, indeed, have already begun retreat, but the allied pressure will make though skilfully conducted, exceedingly costly in both men and material.

General Ludendorff has patently derided the time to withdraw to a shortened line where he can organize his forces, but the steady, unremitting pressure of Foch's armies, applied all along the li-

THE WIFE

By JANE PHELPS

BRIAN TAKES MOLLIE TO THE MATINEE. RUTH IS THERE ALSO.

CHAPTER LXV.

Notwithstanding Ruth's diplomacy as regarded her salary raise, Brian had not been easy to manage since it happened. At every opportunity he talked of it, accused Ruth of not caring for him because now she earned twice as much as he did; and in every way made things very difficult for her.

It was not that he objected to sharing the comforts her salary enabled them to have; or the outings they, because of it, enjoyed. It was jealousy of her, her capacity to earn.

Ruth hoped he would ignore it, after a few days, but in vain. He would say over and over that she earned twice as much as he did. And when she tried to change the tenor of his talk by saying his work was but preparatory to big things in the future, he would sneer, or else grow angry.

The week following her raise had consequently been a hard one. Ruth was worn out physically and mentally. So when Clara Roberts proposed they go to a matinee on Saturday afternoon, Ruth gladly agreed.

Clara had not mentioned her plan until after her husband and Brian had left. At first they spoke of calling them up and asking them to meet them at the theater. Then Clara said:

"I know Kenyon will hate to lose a half day. Let's go by ourselves this time. We'll be at home before they are."

Ruth reluctantly agreed. She well knew that Brian would not hesitate to leave the office had she called him. Yet she also felt that she would not interfere with his business hours.

They were a bit late and the curtain was up, the play commenced, before they found their seats.

During the intermission they amused themselves by looking around the house, making comments about the way people were dressed, admiring this one, and finding fault good naturedly with some one else.

Suddenly Ruth saw Clara start. She followed her gaze and, yet, it looked like—it was Brian and Mollie King. The curtain just then rose on the second act, leaving the house in darkness, much to Ruth's relief.

Clara never had met Mollie. But what would she think? Ruth felt sure Brian had asked Mollie to the matinee because of the mood he had been in all the week. "Probably she lunched with him, too," she thought bitterly. Then, "had I called him up, I should have known."

Clara pretended to be absorbed in the play, but Ruth felt sure she was surreptitiously watching her—and also Brian. She saw nothing of what was on the stage, heard nothing of what was said. Her mind was so intent upon finding some way to explain things to Clara Roberts; some excuse for Brian.

But even when the curtain finally rung down on the second act, she had arrived at no decision.

She looked at the program and saw the wait was to be a long one. Would Brian go out to smoke? If he did should she follow him?

Clara tried to appear unconscious and to chatter as usual, but Ruth realized that it was trying, and that it was an effort. Watching her closely, she saw her eyes turn toward Brian and Mollie, seemingly unable to avoid doing so.

In desperation Ruth finally said: "Why, I believe that's Brian over there with Mollie King, a great friend of ours. We will wait for them. I should like you to meet her."

"That will be nice. She's very pretty," Clara answered, not at all deceived by Ruth's brave attempt to carry off an uncomfortable situation.

The last act was short. Brian and Mollie were nearer the stage than were Ruth and Clara, so they waited at the back of the house until they came along.

"Hello, Brian!" Ruth said brightly, causing him to turn a startled face in her direction, then to flush deeply. "How do you do, Miss King! wasn't the play delightful?" then, without waiting for a reply from either, she presented Mrs. Roberts to Mollie.

"I was going to phone you, Brian, that we were also to be at the theater, but didn't get time," she bravely prevaricated. "We might have all sat together."

"I'll leave you now," Mollie King said when they reached the street. Ruth was about to tell Brian to accompany her to the car or stage, but she concluded she had been patient enough, so she said instead: "Good bye, Miss King; come on Brian, take Mrs. Roberts and me home in the stage."

Brian hailed a stage, they got in. Repenting her rudeness, Ruth called:

"Come and see us soon, Miss King!" but Mollie either did not hear or scorned to answer.

MEHAFFEY DISMISSED BY JUDGE THIS MORNING

The Complaining Witness In Rape Case Told Conflicting Stories

TAKEN FROM THE JURY

The trial of the People vs. John Mehafeey came to a sudden conclusion today. Judge Baume, after a portion of the testimony, dismissed the case. Clara Hoener, the young many conflicting statements that the court discovered that there was nothing to do but dismiss the case. This case caused considerable discussion by people in the vicinity of West Brooklyn, a great many of the people from that community being here during the trial of the case.

State's Attorney Edwards did all he could, but under the circumstances there was but one thing to do and that was to ask the court to dismiss the case, which was done. Mehafeey is now a free man.

WOULD KEEP LOVE IN WORLD

Pathetic Plea Made by Austrian Woman More Than Her English Sister Could Refuse.

She was a little Austrian woman and she was crossing the ocean on a great hostile liner. Most of the other women were the wives of Englishmen and they could not forget that her country was at war with their land. They ignored her, and she was left much to herself. And yet—

One morning as she was walking up and down the deck in her solitary way she passed the steamer chair of a middle-aged English woman who was knitting at a gray woolen sock, relates a writer in the Christian Herald. And suddenly she paused in her walk and held out both of her hands.

"Oh," she cried, in very good English, "will you not let me knit a few rows on that sock?"

The English woman looked up. And her face was cold and rather hard. "I think," she said, "that you would scarcely want to knit on this sock. For it is going to be an English colored—my husband!"

The little Austrian woman looked at the colored lady. And there were tears in her eyes. "Listen," she said in a low, shaking voice, "I myself have a son. He is an officer in the Austrian army. But if you knew my son I do not think you would hate him! If I knew the colored, your husband, I do not think I would hate him either. * * * She paused for a moment before she went on, and then—"now that the world is torn by war," she said, "we women must do what we can to keep a little love in it. * * * May I, perhaps, knit a few rows on the sock?"

Silently, but with tears in her own eyes, the English woman handed over the gray wool.

OBEDIENT TO OLD COMMAND

Palestine Farmers Still Remember Biblical Injunction in Reference to the Gleaners.

After the lentils and similar crops of the bean family have been gathered in by the Palestinian farmer, the barley harvest comes next, and lastly the wheat.

When harvesting, the men wear a leather apron and sometimes a large padded glove. The women have none of the protection provided for them, says the Christian Herald. Sickles are of two kinds, one, the katoosh, is small and with quite a dull edge and is employed when the crops are short and scanty. These do not cut the straw, but rather help pull up the grain by the roots or break off the brittle stalks. The other, called mampal, is much larger and supplied with short, slanting teeth, and is used on the tall, well-grown grain fields.

Reaping with these simple implements and binding the sheaves with their own straw, a considerable amount is left behind and many of the ears drop off, but once the reapers have advanced, they, actuated by almost religious scruples, will not pick up that which has been dropped, even though they be severely poor themselves, for they unwittingly follow a command not given to them but to former inhabitants, the tillers and reapers of this land: "And when ye reap the harvest of your land, thou shalt not make clean riddance of the corners of thy field when thou reapest, neither shalt thou gather any gleanings of thy harvest."

HAVE TO KNOW MULE NATURE

Drivers of Patient Animals Realize They Have Peculiarities and Must Be Humored.

An old flea-bitten, hammer-headed, ewe-necked bell mare, slowly picking her way across the corral at the remount station at Camp Zachary Taylor, followed by a long string of mules walking in single file, heads down and ears wagging, served as illustration for an officer attached to the big cantonment who had just finished remarking that "horse nature and mule nature and human nature were mighty contrary things any way you take them."

"Now, take those mules," he said. "The education of a pack mule is a thing that must begin early. He has just two purposes in life.

"One is to carry 225 pounds day after day patiently and uncomplainingly, and the other is to follow the bell mare of the train, regardless of where that animal may go. Well, there is in that corral an illustration of the effectiveness of our training. The old mare has started after a drink of water and there goes every dad-blasted one of those fool mules after a drink of water."

Investigation revealed that the pack mule is not the only member of his family that has peculiarities that can be played upon or must be humored. It was learned that the larger mules, once teamed up or paired, must there-

A Message to the Women of Dixon

You Women Who do Your Own Work Day After Day---Read This Story

YOU housewives of Dixon belong to America's biggest Industry-- 20,000,000 kitchens with 24,000,000 women working in them to prepare the nation's meals each day. Yet most of you women have fewer labor-saving conveniences than men. Why is it?

The responsibility of saving the nation's food rests on you. And you must do Red Cross work, solicit for Liberty Loans, Thrift Stamps and other war funds--there are scores of duties that have fallen on women in war-time.

7,000,000 women are working in direct war service. In munition plants, offices, factories, and on farms. The shortage of woman help is getting more acute daily. And there never was a time when labor-saving equipment was in greater need for the home.

The kitchen cabinet leads the list, because it saves steps and time and prevents waste every day in the year.

Read This Timely Bulletin

The Government has sent out hundreds of home demonstration agents who have practically lived in the average home and the average kitchen. Their report, which is published by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, says:

"A kitchen cabinet is just as important to the woman as the bench to the workman or the laboratory desk to the chemist. With it the housekeeper can sit down comfortably with her whole kitchen workshop within easy reach. It saves walking to and fro to gather up this thing and that to prepare the food."

Save Time, Energy, Food and Steps

The Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet is universally recognized as the leader. Over a million delighted owners use it daily to save time, steps, energy and food.

Eight of the world's foremost domestic science experts have helped to make every part of the Hoosier a practical, service kitchen helper.

Hoosier is made in the world's largest kitchen cabinet factory--big production makes low cost possible.

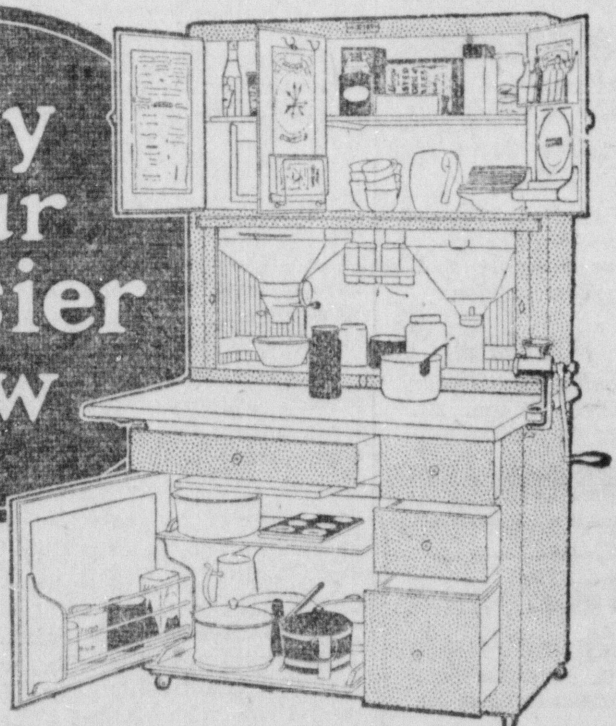

Easy Terms and Low Prices Put the Hoosier Within Your Reach--

But you must hurry--we don't have enough Hoosier Cabinets in stock now to supply the demand. We can only hope to supply a few of the women who need the most.

This shortage is due to the fact that women must carry more burdens now than ever before. Woman's work has been increased. There is a great need for more of your spare time, and the Hoosier Kitchen Cabinet gives it to you.

Come to our store tomorrow as early as possible while there is still time to decide.

GREAT LOSS OF FEARED IN SINKINGS

250, were reported to have perished. It was said that the ship's boats were shelled by the submarine, accounting for the wounded among the survivors.

Seventeen of the survivors were American soldiers, being part of a detachment detailed to care for horses which the ship was transporting.

Lost From Convoy.

Exactly when and where the Ticonderoga was torpedoed could not be ascertained on account of censorship restrictions. The ship left an Atlantic port on Sept. 22 as a part of a convoy. Presumably it fell victim to the U-boat without other protection than its own guns, as, according to previous reports received by the navy department, it became separated from the rest of the ships and was not thereafter heard from.

The Ticonderoga was formerly the German steamer Camilla Rickmers. The ship was interned at Manila at the beginning of the war.

U. S. Freighter Sunk.
New York, Oct. 10.—The American steamship Deepwater, 8,500 tons gross register, has been sunk, presumably by an enemy submarine, according to information received in shipping circles here today.

The Deepwater was built at Camden, N. J., in 1917, and before being launched was taken over by the United States shipping board. It was assigned to the Italian government as a freight transport.

Japanese Ship Lost.

A British Port, Oct. 7.—(Delayed.)—The Japanese steamship, Hiranomaru of 7,935 tons gross, has been torpedoed and sunk. It is feared that 291 of the 320 aboard were lost. Among the victims were two nurses, three Japanese women and seven children.

The Hiranomaru was outward bound for Japan and carried about 200 passengers. The vessel was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine early on Friday morning when about 300 miles south of Ireland.

The few survivors who were picked up by the American torpedo boat destroyer Sterret, have been brought here. They declare that the torpedo struck the steamer in the forward engine room.

Nothing remained for those on board, including the women and children, but to plunge into the ocean. A large number, however, went down with the ship. The vessel disappeared within seven minutes after being struck by the torpedo.

U. S. Destroyer to Rescue.

The scene was indescribable. The weather was bad and rather hazy. The cries of the drowning were heart-rending. Everybody had been supplied with life belts, but only the strongest were able to stand the buffeting waves and exposure.

Provisionally the commander of the American destroyer Sterret heard the explosion and steered his vessel for the point whence the sound came. He found the ship had disappeared and he saw a mass of people struggling in the water.

There were no small boats available, so the destroyer in the bad weather steamed about picking up those who were still alive. The American warship picked up thirty persons, one of whom died while being brought ashore.

While the American destroyer was picking up the men and women struggling in the water, the German submarine fired two torpedoes at the warship, but both missiles missed their mark.

Break In Center of German Line in West Opens New Possibilities

CHANGES FOCH PLANS?

Yankee Troops On German Soil Soon Would Not Surprise U. S.

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—The smashing victory of the Anglo-American forces northeast of St. Quentin may be paving the way for early invasion of Germany itself. Striking hints of a wholly new enterprise, directed at the upper Rhine valley, have come from unofficial quarters in France, and they follow repeated reports from Switzerland that the civil populations of the Rhine valley towns were being removed by the German authorities.

Some officers here regard these reports as highly significant. They give them particular weight because it now appears certain that the enemy will be forced far back all along the front in northern France and Belgium within the next few days.

While the constant hammering is kept up in the north to pin the German armies there, it might be possible, it was said, to deliver a new stroke on the Alsace-Lorraine front that might swiftly develop into an invasion of Germany itself by way of the Rhine valley.

Crushing Victory May Be Near.
The wholly unexpected extent of the German collapse between St. Quentin and Cambrai, however, may upset any plans for a drive to the Rhine. Marshal Foch may have planned. As the enemy stands today, with a great gap torn in the center of the lines that were already struggling to extricate themselves and get back to a shorter front, there is even the possibility of a

POINTS TO REMEMBER WHEN BUYING REAL ESTATE

1st.—See that the neighborhood and surroundings are good, and that transportation to it is satisfactory.

2nd.—Insist that the seller furnishes you with an Abstract of Title.

3rd.—If the seller can't furnish an abstract showing a good title, do not buy. Large investors, like Hetty Green and Sile Tompkins, require this, and you should insist upon receiving the same.

4th.—If you are "trading" properties, see that the other fellow hasn't inflated the price of his property so that he gets yours for nothing.

This is mighty important, for a couple of trades of this kind would put the other fellow in a gilded chariot and you in the County Home.

5th.—Have the property conveyed to yourself and wife by JOINT TENANCY DEED; then if either of you die, the survivor will own the property without the trouble and expense of going thru the Probate Court.

Go to any good lawyer and he will see to it that you receive the above, and that the hired girl doesn't get the property.

plan difficult to accomplish.

Last night and today have accentuated the extent of the German retreat and accelerated its pace.

Pushing Ahead Today.

Today's battle front reports show that the British, with the cooperation of the Americans, are still widening the great wedge southeast of Cambrai, with the French aiding notably in their sectors.

General Petain's troops have pushed forward to the river Oise to a point almost as far north as Guise, where they have joined with the British and Americans, who are rapidly nearing the railroad junction of Wassigny, southeast of Le Cateau.

Other Armies Aid.
This sensational advance in the center has been more marked, however, through the terrific pressure of the French south of Laon and north of the Aisne and in the Champagne. This movement, continuing north, is making inevitable the German retirement from Laon and the great St. Gobain massif.

The withdrawal, indeed, appears to be now under way here, as elsewhere.

The Americans, with the French, are continuing to apply their pressure in the Champagne and the American first army drive in the Argonne has joined hands with General Petain's forces at Grand Pre.

Expect Yankee Advance.
Further eastward the strong line on which the Germans stood resisting the American drive west of the Meuse, is crumbling under General Pershing's blows and a further advance of the American forces here is looked for.

OBITUARY

MRS. JOHN FREED.

Lillian May Trouth was born October 25, 1883, in Palmyra township and died at her home, 708 North Otawa avenue, Saturday, October 5, 1918, of pneumonia, aged 34 years, 11 months, 10 days.

At the age of 13 years she was baptized and confirmed by Rev. T. F. Dornblaser at St. Paul's Lutheran church. She was married Jan. 12, 1916, to John Freed, of this city, by Rev. F. D. Altman.

A day before her death she became the mother of a baby boy, Gail B., who passed away shortly after the mother. A daughter, Mable, born to her by a former marriage, is left to mourn the loss of a loving mother. A brother, Theodore L., died in France June 25th while in the service of his country. Besides the sorrowing parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Trouth, and husband, she leaves the following sisters: Mrs. Oscar Eversole, of Sterling; Mrs. John Hipple, Mrs. John Palmer, and one brother, George, at home.

The sudden and untimely death of the young woman is a great shock to her many friends and the entire community extends sympathy to the stricken husband and family. The funeral was held Monday, October 7th, at the Preston chapel, with Rev. F. D. Altman in charge of the services. Burial was at Oakwood cemetery.
